Be Part of a Global Firm Committed to a Sustainable World

Housing Demographics Expert – Riyadh, Saudi Arabia

Through Parsons' engineering and construction management services, we deliver innovative, safe and sustainable infrastructure in Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Qatar, Oman, Bahrain and Kuwait. Our focus is on delivering air, rail, road and highway transportation; water conveyance and/or wastewater treatment; and land development and public infrastructure to our clients and your communities. Parsons creates interconnected communities and world class infrastructure.

Project

There is a pressing need for housing in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. The government has developed a Program to supply over 500,000 Saudi homes over the next few years. Parsons has been awarded the first package released by the Ministry of Housing as part of this ambitious program. This initial package comprises 11 sites spread across the kingdom, encompassing some 32 million m2 of developed space. Each site covers a different area ranging from 10 million m2 in Dammam to 729,000 m2 in Khamis Mushayt. The project scope includes master planning, design of infrastructure and housing, as well as construction supervision of the 11 Saudi community developments

Need

Parsons wants a team of seasoned experts who have experience in the strategic planning and development of major housing programs. This team will work directly with the most senior levels of the Ministry to guide them in how the MOH should operate, think and plan in broad, strategic terms. Their input is programmatic in nature and extends beyond the boundaries of our project (although their input could impact our project).
